Why:
As part of the 5/6 Shared Inquiry ‘What’s Behind the Design?’ the Hollywood costumes exhibition will give students an insight into the creative processes involved before they see their favourite designs on the screen. The students will also have an opportunity to wonder through the retro computer games gallery to see how they were originally developed.

_Hollywood Costume_ illuminates the costume designer’s creative process from script to screen and reveals the collaborative dialogue that leads to the development of authentic screen characters. Direct from the Victoria and Albert Museum in London, _Hollywood Costume_ explores the central role costume design plays in cinema storytelling. Bringing together the most iconic costumes from a century of filmmaking, this is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to see the clothes worn by unforgettable and beloved characters in films from _The Wizard of Oz_ (1939) to _Titanic_ (1997), _Ben-Hur_ (1959) to _Casino Royale_ (2006).

This groundbreaking exhibition unites classics from the Golden Age of cinema, including Scarlett O’Hara’s green ‘curtain’ dress designed by Walter Plunkett for _Gone with the Wind_ (1939) and the ‘little black dress’ designed by Hubert De Givenchy for Holly Golightly in _Breakfast at Tiffany’s_ (1961) with costumes from the latest Hollywood releases including Consolata Boyle’s outfits for Meryl Streep in _The Iron Lady_ (2011) and Lindy Hemming’s high-tech Batman suit for Christian Bale in _The Dark Knight Rises_ (2012).

_Hollywood Costume_ is curated by eminent Hollywood costume designer Deborah Nadoolman Landis with Sir Christopher Frayling and Keith Lodwick.
